planning as persuasive storytelling is a revealing look at the world of political conflict surrounding the commonwealth edison company's ambitious nuclear power plant construction program in northern illinois during the 1980s examining the clash between the utility consumer groups community based groups the illinois commerce commission and the city of chicago throgmorton argues that planning can best be thought of as a form of persuasive storytelling a planner's task is to write future oriented texts that employ language and figures of speech designed to construct constituencies that the planner's vision is both desirable and feasible though seeking to persuade the planner must also remain open to transformation through honest engagement with contending stories juxtaposing stories about efforts to construct Chicago's electric future planning as persuasive storytelling suggests a shift in how we think about planning in order to account for the fragmented and conflicted nature of contemporary American life and politics that shift would be away from science and the experts and toward persuasive storytelling by diverse authors p 4 of cover trading zone is a concept introduced by Peter Galison in his social scientific research on how scientists representing different subcultures and paradigms have been able to coordinate their interaction locally in this book Italian and Finnish planning researchers extend the use of the concept to different contexts of urban planning and management where there is a need for new ideas and tools in managing the interaction of different stakeholders the trading zone concept is approached as a tool in organizing local platforms and support systems for planning participation knowledge production decision making and local conflict management in relation to the former theses of communicative planning theory that stress the ideals of consensus mutual understanding and universal reason the trading zone approach outlined in this book offers a different perspective it focuses on the potentiality to coordinate locally the interaction of different stakeholders without requiring the deeper sharing of understandings values and motives between them Galison's commentary comes in the form of the book's final chapter defence planning as strategic fact provides and elaborates on an upstream focus on the variegated organizational political and conceptual practices of military civilian administrative and political leaderships involved in defence planning offering an important security and strategic studies supplement to the traditional downstream focus on the use of force the book enables the reader to engage with the role of ideas in defence planning of organizational processes and biases path dependencies and administrative dynamics under the pressures of continuously changing domestic and international constraints the chapters show how defence planning must be seen as a constitutive element of defence and strategic studies that it is a strategic fact of its own which merits particular practical and scholarly attention as defence planning creates the conditions behind every peace upheld or broken and every war won or lost defence planning as strategic fact will be of great use to scholars of defence studies strategic studies and military studies this book was originally published as a special issue of defence studies
